Responses to the Attorney General's Third Set of Information Requests

Request No. AG-3-3 (Electric)

What witness is responsible for the Internal Transmission charge?

Response:

As indicated in response to AG 3-2, FG&E's Electric Division is not proposing any changes to its Internal Transmission Charge. Therefore, a specific witness was not identified in the filing. Company witness Karen M. Asbury, as identified in this filing, is available however, to respond to questions regarding the Internal Transmission Charge related to this filing. Transmission cost of service information provided in the schedules of Company witness Mark H. Collin and Management Consultant James L. Harrison will be supported by those witnesses. In certain instances, joint responsibility may be necessary given the unique knowledge of each witness and overlap in subject areas.

Person Responsible: Karen M. Asbury
